It will sell well in book stores, and in the hands of the public.

PARMEELE & CO., Publishers, 738 Sanson St., Philadelphia, Pa.

LIFE IN NEW YORK.—Sunshine and Shadow in New York.—By Matthew Hale Emish. Illustrated: 720 pp. Hartford, Conn.: J. B. Burr & Co. 1868. Sold only by subscription. We are under obligations to the excellent publishing house of J. B. Burr & Co., of Hartford Connecticut for a copy of the foregoing work.

Great cities which are the hearts of great nations, are always fruitful topics for the pen of a skillful writer; but probably no city in the world is better in herself more material of varied interest than does New York. So, no work which could come to the hands of our readers, who love to know "what's going on in the world," and "how people live," would be apt to be so interesting as this. The one whose title we quote above. J. B. Burr & Co., the publishers of the work, certainly knew what they were about in giving it to the public. It must have a vast sale, for everybody and his neighbor's cargo; but find in the book a great deal to excite and interest him, to try to get of the thousand valuable matters of solid information which it affords. Nobody from the country should ever visit New York without having first read this book; and the old frequenter of that city will find scattered here and there throughout its pages, hosts of things which may have escaped his attention, and may rise from the perusal of the book (which he will be sure to lay aside till he has finished it) with that old proverbial home feeling in reviving in his mind the scenes of his childhood, or in wandering back to the "fatherland." The high and low; moral worth and craft and cunning; joys and sorrows; smiling for one and frowning penny; the home altars of devotion and purity, and the interior views of the times of debauchery and crime, etc., etc., are here painted in their true colors. The publishers deserve the public's most precious thanks for this work.

We are unable, for want of space, to quote from the work; but will say that a careful perusal of its pages, is one of the most readable and interesting volumes published in many years. Get the work, and verify the truth of what we assert.

BAD PRACTICE.—You might as well expect to relieve and cure an inflamed eye by dusting irritating powders into it as to expect to subdue and cure Catarrh (which is an inflammation of the mucous membrane of the air passages in the head) by the use of irritating snuffs or strong caustic solutions. Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures Catarrh by its mild, soothing action which subdues the inflammation and restores the natural secretion of the mucous follicles. It is a pleasant remedy, its use being attended and followed by a cooling and agreeable sensation. The proprietors Dr. Sage & Co., of Buffalo, N. Y. offer $500 for a case of Catarrh that they can not cure. Sent by mail on receipt of sixty cents. For sale by most druggists everywhere.
